Music Therapy, its value and its techniques

Lindsay McHale will give a presentation on Music therapy and its benefits, with a demonstration of some of the techniques used.

Having read music at Oxford, Lindsay spent eight years in the music industry in a range of marketing roles before following her passion for music and people by undertaking a Masters course to train as a music therapist with Nordoff Robbins Music Therapy charity.

Since qualifying she has worked with client groups from babies to the elderly across a range of mental health, physical, emotional, learning and social difficulties in both NHS and Nordoff Robbins settings. Lindsay was Head of Music Services at Nordoff Robbins for seven years and has now joined Music as Therapy International as their U.K. and International Programme Manager.

She remains passionate about the range of benefits that music therapy and music making can bring to improve health and wellbeing.

The Delta Kappa Gamma Society International promotes professional and personal growth of women educators & excellence in education.
